

Title: Safety product policy (10 minutes)

Your company sells machinery used in the manufacturing industry. Recent research led to the development of a safety device that will decrease by 50% the probability of occurring accidents for the average user. Incorporating this new safety device implies a 10% increase in the cost of the product, which might affect your sales performance in a very competitive market.

Comment the situation.